FOR ELDERS IN NEW ZEALAND

1. Enjoy Life Forever!—Brochure (Iffi) in Maori: In harmony with the announcement for congregations, the body of elders should determine whether there is a Maori-speaking community in the congregation's territory. If so, the body of elders should organize a campaign to offer the publication and to stimulate interest in the field. Only well-qualified publishers and pioneers should be invited to participate in the campaign and to attend the public talk(s), with preference being given to those who speak Maori or who are learning it. The body of elders will determine the length of the campaign and when to begin based on the size of the Maori-speaking community. However, the campaign should not last longer than three months. If there is not an elder or a qualified ministerial servant who can give the public talk(s) in Maori, the talk should be interpreted by a qualified publisher. To assist you in determining when to begin the campaign, please note that it may take up to three months to receive physical copies of the brochure once ordered. If a literature order will be submitted, we request that this be done before March 1, 2025. Of course, all are encouraged to make good use of the electronic version of the publication if possible.

2. The focus of the campaign will be on starting Bible studies and on having one or more public talks in Maori. These arrangements will not only introduce attendees to the newly translated publication but will also assist you in evaluating the interest within the Maori-speaking community. After the body of elders has reviewed and verified the two reports prepared by the service overseer, the reports should be forwarded to the circuit overseer. The body of elders should determine if there is a basis for recommending the formation of a pregroup or group.—See chapter 24 of the Shepherd book.

FOR COORDINATORS OF THE BODIES OF ELDERS

1. Enjoy Life Forever!—Brochure (Iffi) in Maori: If the body of elders has determined that there is a Maori-speaking community in the congregation's territory, please ensure that the announcement for congregations is read at the next midweek meeting and thereafter posted on the information board for at least one month.

FOR SERVICE OVERSEERS

1. Enjoy Life Forever! —Brochure (Iffi) in Maori: If the body of elders has determined that there is a Maori-speaking community in the congregation's territory, please advise your circuit overseer. He may suggest that publishers within the circuit or other congregations and/or groups be invited to share in the campaign.

2. During the campaign, work actively with the publishers to feature the newly translated publication. Request the assistance of publishers who are familiar with the language and territory in preparing sample conversations that could be demonstrated during meetings for field service. These demonstrations may include scenarios such as offering printed literature, directing attention to jw.org, playing an audio recording or a video from a mobile device, offering a Bible study, or inviting someone to the public talk in Maori. Encourage publishers to be adaptable. As a reminder, meetings for field service should be from five to seven minutes in length.

3. You should prepare two reports: the first one immediately following the campaign and the second one six months after the campaign. Both reports should include the number of Bible studies started and whether the newly translated publication was well received. In addition to providing attendance figures for the public talk(s), indicate how many of the interested persons in attendance depend on and prefer the language.

FOR LIFE AND MINISTRY MEETING OVERSEERS

1. Enjoy Life Forever!—Brochure (Ifi) in Maori: If the body of elders has determined that there is a Maori-speaking community in the congregation's territory, please assign an elder to present the outline "Teach God's Word to 'All Sorts of People'" (S-137) during a midweek meeting prior to the start of the campaign. The outline is available in the "Forms" section of the "Documents" tab on JW Hub. Arrange for one or more scheduled parts to be abbreviated as needed, unless the body of elders decides to use a 15-minute local needs part that is scheduled in the Life and Ministry Meeting Workbook.

FOR CIRCUIT OVERSEERS IN NEW ZEALAND

1. Please ensure that, where applicable, the elders follow through in reading the announcement for congregations, presenting the outline, and organizing the campaign. Inform the service overseers of any qualified publishers and pioneers in the circuit who speak Maori. Assist the elders in deciding if other congregations or groups in the circuit should be invited to participate in the campaign. It may also be practical for you to communicate with a neighboring circuit overseer if the Maori-speaking community overlaps the circuit boundaries. Each time that you visit the congregation, review the progress in the Maori-speaking field. When serving congregations that are conducting or have recently sponsored campaigns, please take an active role in assisting the elders and publishers to cultivate the Maori-speaking field. Six months after the campaign and after thoroughly reviewing the two reports you received from the affected bodies of elders, complete the Evaluation of New-Language Publications (S-138) form, found in the "Forms" section of the "Documents" tab on JW Hub, and submit it to the Service Department.

FOR SELECTED CONGREGATIONS IN NEW ZEALAND

1. Enjoy Life Forever!—Brochure (Iffi) in Maori: We are pleased to inform you that the brochure Enjoy Life Forever! is now available in Maori. To assist in sharing this publication with those in the Māori-speaking community, please note the following arrangements:

- (1) The body of elders will organize a campaign featuring the publication in the Maori-speaking community. Selected publishers and pioneers will be invited to participate in the campaign, which will last _____ month(s).
- (2) At least one public talk in Maori will be given during the campaign.
- (3) A midweek meeting part will be presented during the week of _____. Additional details regarding the campaign will be shared at that time.

2. We appreciate your loving support on this arrangement and pray that Jehovah will bless your efforts to seek out those in the Maori-speaking community who are “rightly disposed for everlasting life.”—Acts 13:48.
